A REMARKABLE ROBBERY

A Thirteen-Year-Old Girl Prepares for an Elopement

By Robbing Her Parents of $60,000—The Funds Deposited With a Druggist and Subsequently Recovered.

BORON, Mass., Sept. 25.—Miss Sallie Robinson, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Charles Robinson, a retired oil merchant now living in South Farmington, has created a sensation by robbing her mother of $60,000 worth of bank bills, diamonds and a valuable bond in order that she might elope with her lover, a youthful man. The circumstances of the case are most mysterious, and in many respects the robbery is one of the most remarkable ever reported to the Boston police. Miss Sallie herself is not a girl one would ever think capable of such a crime. She is an only child, and has always been the idol of her parents' hearts. No expense or care has been spared to secure for her the best possible education. She is a well-developed, exceptionally pretty girl of the brunette type, with lustrous dark eyes, dark brown hair and a perfect complexion. She is usually stout for a girl of her age, and weighs nearly 100 pounds, and is well developed physically as a girl of eighteen. Her father removed to Farmington several years ago. At that time he sold houses in Boston and other property which he owned, so that he received in cash altogether about $75,000. Seven thousand dollars of this money he invested in diamonds and $38,000 he put into railway bonds.

This property, with $15,000 cash, he put in the hands of his wife. She distributed bank and safe deposit vaults, and kept the valuables in the house in an old black valise, over which she kept the key. On Thursday afternoon she went out with her husband. Thursday night, after returning with her husband, Mrs. Robinson did not go to bed without putting the valise beneath her head, something that she never neglected doing from the time she had come into possession of it.

The next morning, when she opened the closet door, she uttered a loud cry and fell heavily on the floor. Her husband rushed to her assistance and asked what was the matter.

"My money, my money," she screamed. "It's all gone!" Mr. Robinson protested to know nothing of it, and Sallie, who had touched it herself, nor seen anybody else touch it. Skilled detectives attacked the house in the morning, and after a long and perplexity Detective Richardson was called into the next house by a young lady, who said that between 6 and 7 o'clock Friday morning she and her mother changed the valise into the house after the husband saw Miss Sallie Robinson emerge from a rear door of her mother's residence, clad in nothing but a night dress, and nothing on her head or feet. She had a large black bag in her hand, and went straight with it to the cellar, entering by way of the bulkhead. In a moment she returned, and re-entered the house, attending the Rice School in this city. On Friday she came into the city, as usual, and it was not until after she had been home that her mother's great loss was discovered. When Inspector Richardson learned these facts Sallie was at once taken into custody.

At first she refused to tell, but after a time she made a statement. She said she had carried the valise into the house on the morning of Friday, as described by the neighbors, and upon returning to the house dressed herself, breakfasted and prepared for the trip to the city. When leaving the house for the depot she did not go out the front way, as was her accustomed to do, but went out of the rear door into the cellar, took the valise, and crossing the garden, passed out through a back gate and hurried to the depot. Upon reaching the city she met in the depot a man, who she knew as a man who was once employed by her mother as a domestic, and she, with a knife, ripped open the valise, took all the valuables and placed them in a new yellow valise bought for the purpose. This Simonson woman, according to Sallie, had followed her day after day, when she came out of the depot and threatened to kill her unless she brought her to her black valise that she had seen Mrs. Robinson have. A few days ago she met her and drew from her sleeve a disk, which she threatened to plunge into her body. Sallie was terrified, and, as she believed, to save her life, brought the valise as requested. She told Richardson that this woman could be found in Boston, and the detectives started at once to hunt her up. After some investigation they decided that the girl's story was in fact.

In the meantime Sallie had made another confession to her mother, who came to Boston with her in her carriage, and on her direct direction to Burdell's drug store, on Church street. The officer entered the store and inquired for a clerk named Louis. He came forward and upon going to the carriage, in which Sallie sat, she asked him to bring that valise that she had seen her mother have. He replied, "Dirty clothes or something of the sort." At the police station he said he knew Sallie only as a customer. He did not know her name. With other girls from the Rice School she had got candy and soda at his store.

Sallie said, in her last confession, that the Simonson woman had nothing to do with the robbery. After she came to Boston she went around to Charles River, and in a quiet spot, when nobody was near, ripped open the old valise, took out the contents and placed them into the new valise, which she had purchased for the purpose, and throwing the old into the river. She then took it to the drug store and asked that it be kept there till Monday.

Her intention to run away Monday, she said, with a lad whose name she would not divulge. Here is where the most mysterious part of the case comes in. It was learned at the drug store that she had been in correspondence with the Simonson woman through Louis, and there is a suspicion that the woman had some power over the girl. The Simonson woman bears an unsavory reputation. She is fifty-three years of age, and repulsive in appearance. It is believed that she is a woman of loose morals, and a certain indication when she was in her mother's house and kept the girl constantly under her thumb, by threatening to inform her mother of Sallie will not be prosecuted by her mother, but she will be sent away to some institution, in the hope of being reformed. She had been home a new crime was discovered, and is the custody of a neighbor of her mother. Mrs. Robinson is on the brink of death. She says that she regrets that the money was lost, as she would rather have lost it all than have become cognizant of her daughter's guilt. She says that she will live to spend a part of the recovered funds.

ROBBING A BANK

By Tunneling—One of the Robbers Shot Dead.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 25.—Monday morning the robbery of the First National Bank of Las Vegas, New Mexico, became convinced that robbers were tunneling from an adjoining building to the vault in the bank. Guards were immediately placed in and around the bank. Those inside observed the masonry of the vault gradually sinking. The robbers, however, were not ignorant of their danger. At 1 o'clock a Mexican volunteer to go down into the cellar to investigate. He stayed for a few days on the stairs when he saw some one coming up. The Mexican fired without a word. The man fell.

The body was brought out. The watchmen began tearing up the floor of the bank and the adjoining building with the evident intention of shooting the robbers on sight. The work is slow, the men fearing to go in range of those below, who in turn are seen ranging from one shadow to another. Up to this time nothing more than this and second guess has been done. The dead robber is recognized as one of the masons who built the vault.

James Pearson, the dead robber, is well known and respected, and leaves considerable property. He died before divulging his confederates. The police failed to find the other robbers. The supposition is, however, that the others fled to the residence of a certain man, who is supposed to be the remainder of the gang. A trip through the tunnel shows a long and patient work on the part of the robbers. The tunnel being fifty feet in length, constructed on scientific principles, containing provisions and water, a full outfit of mining tools, and must have been three months in construction.

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Sept. 25.—Bob Ford and Dick Liddell, former members of the James gang in Missouri, have been ordered by the vigilantes to leave town on suspicion of their connection with the projected bank robbery. Pearson, the dead robber, is thought to have employed by others, who planned the scheme. The tunnel leading toward the bank vault is sixty feet long, and is estimated to have cost $10,000. Pearson had been employed three months in excavating it. There is no clue as to the number engaged in the plot.

Six Passengers Seriously and Slightly Injured.

BATTLEBORO, Vt., Sept. 25.—While the lowland miscreant on the Battleboro and Whitehall Railroad, due here at 3:40 p. m., was just south of West River bridge, West Dummerston, a freight car left the passenger coach, which was precipitated upon a twenty-foot embankment. George E. Richmond, of Jamaica, who had been aboard, was fatally injured. His wife and daughter were quite severely injured. After about the spine of the car, George Richmond and Miss Donnelly, of Dummerston, were badly injured and received internal injuries. James Underwood, of New Pains, and his two brothers, Mr. Underwood, who suffered a severe gash on the forehead. About fifteen other passengers received slight injuries. Judge Stuart, of Townsend, and J. L. Martin were among the passengers who were injured. Medical aid was at once summoned by telephone from Battleboro, and the train was dispatched to the scene of the accident.

COTTONWOOD FRUIT.

Thirty-Three Horses Thieves Hanged.

FORT KROGH, M. T., Sept. 25.—Mr. E. J. Brunay, a Scotch gentleman, who has been in the north side of the Yellowstone River for the last week, looking after a range for the 'household head of cattle, returned to this city to-day. Among other interesting things he saw a couple of bulls hanging to cottonwood trees on Poplar River. This raises the total number of lynchings of these thieves this season up to thirty-three, as far as heard from.

TOWNSHIP, O.—to be seen.

AN Italian navy hero, after lighting his pipe, attempted to press the tobacco down with a diamond cigarette. One hand was blown away, and he was severely injured. He was taken to the hospital, but died of his wounds.

PROUBLE IN THE TRANSVAAL AGONY. London, Sept. 25.—A division from South Africa state that the Boers have invaded Stellenbosch, in violation of the guarantee entered into with England. The London papers say that the Government should regard the Transvaal as being in a state of war with England.

A Riot Suppressed.

BRANSON, Mo., Sept. 25.—A popular demonstration in honor of the revolution of 1830, various speeches against the Government were made. At one point the disorder was so great that the police charged upon the crowd and cleared the streets.

THE JAUNT OF MR. BLAINE

Who is On His Westward Presidential Tour.

He Talks Freely to a Reporter, and Claims Three, Perhaps Five, of the States of the "Solid South"—Political Notes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The special train conveying Mr. Blaine and party from Philadelphia to this city did not stop at any point except Elizabeth. Mr. Blaine, notwithstanding the labors of the day, was not fatigued. In conversation with reporter this morning Mr. Blaine said:

"I am very much pleased with the outlook. We shall carry at least three, perhaps five, of the States usually accorded to the 'solid South.'"

"It is in Ohio and Indiana."

"The reports are most satisfactory."

"It is in Pennsylvania."

"To a majority will be overwhelming. The campaign will be a great success."

"Are the Camerons friendly?"

"Quite so—entirely so; father and son, and all their friends."

"Do these scandalous reports worry you?"

"Not at all. The truth is mighty and will prevail. That judgment shall I fear, having done no wrong? Indeed, I am kept so busy all the time that I do not see one half the papers that are served upon me. Of course, later attacks are expected and the people understand it."

"How are you pleased with your reception?"

"Delighted! Overwhelmed! Everywhere along the route, from Maine to Philadelphia, I have been received with the greatest enthusiasm. But I do not care to take these splendid demonstrations all to myself. I am sensible of the fact that I am in some sense the representative of great principles of protection to American industries, and to that other vital principle of protection to American citizens in all quarters of the world. The Republican party is the champion of these essentials; therefore, with vigilance and good management, we shall triumph in November. But, I find I am making an address when I merely mean to answer a question."

A TALK WITH EADS.

The Callahan Tunnel and the Heartless Ship Canal.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Captain James B. Eads, the well known engineer, has arrived in this city. He has been spending several months in Europe and has during that time been consulted by the promoters of the Callahan Tunnel. In conversation with a reporter he said:

"A tunnel under the Straits of Dover is absolutely practicable, in my judgment, and that was the opinion expressed to Sir Edward Watkin, the manager of the Great Eastern Railroad, who is one of the prominent English promoters of the scheme. Already the English have been made for a distance of a mile and a half on the English side and a mile and three-quarters on the French side. From the nature of these borings it is evident that no serious obstacle to the construction of the tunnel may be feared. As you know, however, even science cannot prevail against the English nation, speaking through Parliament has decided that no tunnel may be made to connect two nations. They refused the power to proceed with the work when it was formally applied for, and there the matter rests. It seems to me that the four years' delay of the tunnel ever being used disadvantageously to England in case of hostilities are unaccountable."

"Were you not consulted also as to the Manchester Ship Canal?"

"I was examined before a committee of the House of Lords on the effect of the canal would have, if constructed as proposed, on the estuary of the River Mersey."

"What conclusion did you reach?"

"I showed them that it would completely ruin the estuary, and in consequence the commerce of Liverpool. I proposed, as an alternative, a canal having a different course, which would have no effect upon the sands of the estuary. The whole question is one of exceeding interest to the commercial men of this port."

"What are your immediate plans?"

"I am going as soon as possible straight through to the City of Chicago, to see my interests there. I brought over with me a model of the Teanabesset Ship Canal, which will be on exhibition at the New Orleans Exposition. After getting through with my work in Mexico I shall probably go to New Orleans."

FALSE SWEARING.

A Conspirator Testifies that He is a Perjurer.

DUBLIN, Sept. 25.—Patrick Cole, one of the approved men of the recent trial of the poisoners charged with conspiracy to murder William Sneythe, and who, it was alleged, had killed Sir Sneythe, has made a statement in which he declares that he was sworn in, gave the trial and which, in consequence, the conviction of six of the accused, was cancelled, that he was sworn in, and testimony was coached by the prosecution as to what he should say on the witness stand. The convicted man had five trials and it was only on the last that the prosecution were able to get a jury to agree upon a verdict.

An Embassador Captured.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A joint committee has returned to the city with Charles W. Broomhall, late station agent at Englewood, who deputed the committee to go to Chicago, belonging to the Interstate, by the Wayne & Chicago Railway. An indictment was found against him and officers have been trying to locate the man, but he has been found and his wife's movements and found that she had a father and brother in Springfield, Ohio. They found she had a letter, which had been written to that place. Deputy Sheriff Mosher went there and found Broomhall working in a printing office. He is now in the Cook County Jail.

Two Girls, Aged Twelve and Fourteen, Kill a Little Half Brother.

An Old Gentleman Murdered by Three Young Negroes in Texas—A Mysterious Attempt at Assassination in Wisconsin.

LAWRENCE, Kas., Sept. 28.—A terrible story comes from Ottawa, Franklin County. A six-year-old child of a farmer, James Waterman, half-brother to two girls, Carrie and Beulah, twelve and fourteen years, was Monday evening murdered by the two girls. The mother being dead, the children were left at home alone. A rope had been tied about the child's neck and it dragged about until dead, the head, through the cutting of the rope, being nearly severed from the body. At the coroner's inquest yesterday the girls said they hated the boy and wanted him dead, ever since their mother told him he was but a half-brother. The whole details are related in a horrible manner. They are both held for murder.

Prospective Lynching.
MARLIN, Tex., Sept. 28.—A point seven miles west of town, Monday night, Cornelius Cisco, a well-to-do old man, was set upon by three negro boys, who struck him on the back of the head with the butt of a rifle, and skinned him. They then robbed him of the few dollars he had with him. A Sheriff's posse started in pursuit of the negroes, and yesterday day overtook Mike Bass, Frank Johnson and George Bailey, aged respectively twenty, seventeen and fifteen years. They were brought to Marlin and lodged in jail last night. Feeling run high over the crime, and if the old man dies, the negroes will undoubtedly be lynched. Cisco not spoken since he was found and the physicians believe he will die. Last night mounted men were hurrying about the outskirts of town, evidently preparing for the lynching. Cisco's death is received. It is rumored that Bailey, the youngest of the negro boys, has confessed everything. If this proves true, their doom is sealed.

Attempted Assassination.
MANNING, Wis., Sept. 28.—John Marshall was dangerously shot while preparing to retire last evening. The assassin fired through the window with a shot-gun loaded with both fine and buck shot. The charge took effect in the right shoulder and neck, tearing the flesh in a fearful manner. There is no clue to the assassin. Marshall received an anonymous letter a week ago warning him to leave the country on pain of death, but no notice was taken of it as he did not know he had an enemy in the country. The assassin shot so close to the window that the powder burnt the ash.

A WOMAN'S FREAK.
She Elopes by Herself on Her Wedding Night.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 28.—The police are looking for a young woman who disappeared from her home on the night fixed for her wedding, attired in her bridal robes. Her name is Mary Walker. Her parents reside at No. 38 Morgan street, and are well-to-do people. Miss Walker is about eighteen years of age. She is an only child, and her father provided her with all she wanted. She has many suitors for her hand, but she turned a deaf ear to all until Lewis Elder, a hard working mechanic, came along. Her acquaintance soon ripened into affection, and when Elder asked the girl's father for his daughter's hand he gave his consent readily. Elder insisted on furnishing the trousseau for his bride, and with a liberal hand supplied her with money. He purchased jewelry, rings and ribbons for her in abundance. Finally the wedding was arranged for Thursday night last, and when dark came Elder, arrayed in his best, sought the Walker house. When he arrived there he ascertained that the bride dress had not been completed, and the wedding was postponed until Sunday night. Friday night Elder called upon his bride alone, but when after reaching her home he ascertained that her parents were going to church. He decided to accompany them, and leaving their daughter at home the parents and their intended son-in-law went to church. They returned about 10 o'clock and were surprised to find the girl absent, but their surprise was greatly increased when they found that her wedding outfit and all her jewelry were gone. So, she did not return that night, and the next morning Elder called on Captain Crim. Captain Crim has not found the missing bride yet.

An Injured Passenger.
CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—J. E. Ziehl, General Superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph, who was injured in yesterday's accident on the Chicago & Alton, was brought to his home in this city last night, and is resting under. Both males are expected to recover. He is severely bruised, but it is not thought he has sustained any internal injuries.

Pool Complications.
CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The conference of the general railroad managers concerning the Astoria complications was resumed with closed doors this morning. It is understood President Cable, of Rock Island, returned from New York last night, will insist on the observance of the tripartite agreement. Such an action will make a settlement as far off as ever.

Serious Riot.
ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 28.—A riot has just occurred between German colonists and Russian peasants, at Rovneta, in the Government of Saratoff. Ten of the rioters were killed and thirty wounded. One of the Germanes who assisted in quelling the disturbance was also killed.

Emperor William's Wisdom.
BERLIN, Sept. 28.—The Emperor William, replying to a deputation of Dusseldorf workmen, declared that he was at present devoting himself with special solicitude to the consideration of the welfare of workmen; but, he added, even a king could not make every one contented.

Military Exhibition Over.
COLOGNE, Sept. 28.—The annual maneuvers of the German army were brought to a formal close to-day. The Emperor made a short speech, congratulating the troops upon the efficiency displayed.

Strangled.
BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 28.—Charles Elliott, who strangled his wife to death, was today sentenced to the State Prison for four years. The Court thought the evidence showed great premeditation.

SALT RHEIM

And Every Species of Itching and Burning Diseases Positively Cured.

INCENZA, or salt rheum, with its agonizing itching and burning, is usually relieved by a warm bath with Cuticura Soap and a single application of Cuticura. The cream is used on the head, neck, arms, and legs for years, not able to walk except on hands and knees for one year; not able to keep himself for eight years; tried hundreds of remedies; doctor pronounced his case hopeless; pertinaciously cured by Cuticura. Received (bought) internally, and used Cuticura Soap (the great skin cure) externally.

Charles Houghton, Esq., lawyer, 28 State street, Boston, reports a case of salt rheum under his observation for ten years, which covered the patient's body and limbs, and to which he had subjected him to treatment had been applied without benefit, which was completely cured solely by the CUTICURA. Received, leaving a clean and healthy skin.

F. H. Drake, Esq., Detroit, Mich., suffered untold tortures from salt rheum which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. A ter most cruel doctoring and a great deal of physician's failed to relieve him, he used the Cuticura remedies, leaving a clean and healthy skin.

Mr. John Tied, Wilkesbarre, Pa., writes: "I have suffered from salt rheum for over eight years, at times so bad that I could not attend to my business for weeks at a time. Three boxes of Cuticura, and four bottles of Cuticura Soap, cured me of this disease. Received for 'How to Cure Skin Diseases'."

Sold by all druggists. CUTICURA, 50 cents. RESOLVENT, 50 cents. SOAP, 25 cents. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

A SINGLE FACT

Is Worth a Ship-Load of Argument.

CARTERSVILLE, GA. This will certify that two members of my immediate family, after having suffered for many years from muscular irregularity, and having been treated without benefit by various medical doctors, were at length completely cured by one bottle of Dr. J. C. Bradfield's Female Regulator. Its effect on such cases is wonderful, and well may the remedy be called "Woman's Best Friend."

Yours respectfully, JAMES W. STRANGE.

ENTIRE AND ABSOLUTE SUCCESS. Maj. John C. Whitner, of Atlanta, well and favorably known all over the United States as a General Insurance Agent, says: "I used this remedy before the war on a large plantation in a great number of cases, always with absolute success."

Dr. J. Davis, of Milltown, Ala., writes: "Have used Bradfield's Regulator extensively in my practice with entire success. If it is not a specific, it is in my opinion, the best known remedy for the diseases for which it is recommended."

A lady of Bonham, Texas, writes: "I have been using your Female Regulator for several weeks and with great benefit. My case is of long standing, and has baffled many physicians. I have tried every medicine I could hear of, but the Regulator is the only one that has ever relieved my distressing sufferings."

NOTABLE CURE. Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator has been thoroughly tested by me in a great variety of cases, and I am fully convinced that it is unrivaled for that class of diseases which it claims to cure. J. C. HARRIS, M. D.
